I really love Megan Hart's work. She isn't afraid to get into the nitty gritty emotional stuff that isn't always, er, posies and lollipops. In other words it's awkward and it's uncomfortable. Her stories focus on those moments in life that are painful and tough, moments that aren't always easy to read about. Deeper is a story about choices and ...

Deeper is also the perfect summer read since it takes place at a beach house during the summer season. If you have never read a Megan Hart book this is a good place to start. Then try Tempted and Dirty. Broken is more powerful, not a fluffy read. Deeper is just the "right depth" of romance and compelling story...thus my favorite by Hart so far.

Megan Hart; Deeper Page 3. ... She breathed him in, deep and deeper. It took him a second to put his arms around her, but when he did, his embrace was firm. Warm. He rubbed her back, then slid up a hand to cup the base of her skull. Bess, eyes closed, shuddered against him. "I thought I was dreaming last night."

Megan Hart is an amazing story teller, never failing to make you believe even the paranormal is reality. Her characters are so vividly burned into your head and heart you find yourself totally caught up in each one. I love the way she weaves characters from other books so very subtly into this one.
