BASICS details how to design a coherent story based around character [the dominant trait of a player in the trial]; motive [the trigger that caused this player to act]; and plot [a combination of the action and the thought process of the player]. It expands this with one common advocacy component, the "theme" [the "hook" that focuses the jury and establishes the morality of the cause or defense]; and adds a less-often mentioned one, "stakes," the significant impact the desired ...

Trial advocacy is the branch of knowledge concerned with making attorneys and other advocates more effective in trial proceedings. Trial advocacy is an essential trade skill for litigators and is taught in law schools and in continuing legal education programs. It may also be taught in primary, secondary, and undergraduate schools, usually as a mock trial elective. The skills of trial advocacy can be broken
